PROVIDES CIVIL SERVICE RETIREMENT.

Congress has enacted the Sterling-Lehlbach civil service retirement law. Final approval of the bill came at the end of a hard fight in the Senate against a determined Democratic filibuster. The action of the Senate marks the last step in a fight between Republicans for many years to obtain retirement benefits for Federal employees.

"The government has made an excellent investment," stated Senator Thomas Sterling, of South Dakota, joint author of the bill with Representative Frederick R. Lehlbach, of New Jersey. Senator Sterling declared that the improvement in the morale of the Government workers as a result of adequate provision made for their retirement after long years of service would alone compensate the Government for the expense involved.

The act provides for the retirement of all employees in the classified civil service at the age of 70. Mechanics, city and rural letter carriers and postoffice clerks are eligible for retirement at 65 years of age. Railway postal clerks may retire at the age of 62 provided that they have been in civil service continually for 15 years. Upon recommendation of the Civil Service Commissioner the provisions of the act may be extended to include any class of employees in civil service.

The annuities are determined by length of service and salaries received. The maximum annuity is $720, and the minimum $180. Only employees who have served for 15 continuous years are eligible for retirement, except in case of disability when an employee may be retired with an annuity before he reaches the legal age.

Employees are required to contribute 2 1/2 per cent of their monthly salaries to a general pension fund created by the act. The Government will provide the funds necessary above this amount. When an employee leaves the service before he is eligible for retirement, the total amount of his payments into the fund with accrued interest are returned to him. In event of death the sum will be paid to his estate. Annuities are payable monthly. The Commissioner of Pensions is charged with the administration of the act and an appropriation of $100,000 is authorized for carrying it into effect.

CLEARED FOR ACTION

To effect economy and efficiency in legislative procedure the Senate has reorganized its committee system. By the adoption of resolution offered by Senator Philander C. Knox of Pennsylvania, the number of standing committees beginning with the next Congress will be reduced from 72 to 32. The membership of the ten major committees will be limited to 15 and the less important committees have been reduced proportionately. Eleven committees on expenditures in the various departments of the Government have been consolidated into a Committee on Expenditures in the Executive Departments which will be composed of seven Senators. The jurisdiction of the present standing committees is not affected by the reorganization plan. As defined by the Knox resolution the principal committees of the Senate are, the Committee on Agriculture and Forestry, the Committee on Appropriations, the Committee on Commerce, the Committee on Finance, the Committee on Foreign Relations, the Committee on Interstate Commerce, the Committee on the Judiciary, the Committee on Military Affairs, the Committee on Naval Affairs and the Committee on Post Office and Post Roads.

Downward trend of prices continues to spread and it is the subject of interest in commercial circles. The trend followed the lead of the department stores until price reductions have become the rule. The movement to the consumer is also given by reports from various sections that manufacturers and wholesalers are making concessions, indicating a permanent reduction.

CHARLEROI SOCIETY WINS THREE BANNERS

The Christian Endeavor Societies of the First Presbyterian and Washington Avenue Presbyterian churches were represented at the annual convention held in the First Presbyterian church at Donora on Friday Morning, afternoon and evening sessions being held. A splendid program was given throughout the day, while in the evening the address of Dr. S. Willis McKelvy, on "Christian Personality" was one of the leading features of the convention. At the evening service the devotions were conducted by the Rev. John R. Burson of Charleroi. At the convention the Society of the Washington Avenue Presbyterian church took three banners, one for the largest number outside of the convention town; one for the society having the largest number of members registered in the convention, and the third for the society having the largest percentage of increase during the year.

The new officers for the ensuing year are: W. C. Weaver, of Conestoga, president; Elmer Selby, of Claysville, vice president; Miss Melverne Iams, of Donora, corresponding secretary; Miss Belle Gebel, of Lockport, recording secretary, and Mrs. Ora K. Work, of Washington, treasurer. The next convention will be held at Claysville.

Charleroi's Best Store

Saturday, June 12th

Every woman has known the inconvenience of going through an endless assortment of apparel in order to find the few models that meet her particular needs. This waste of time and temper may be avoided. You need only step into our store to discover that this problem has been solved for you; that here at last you may enjoy selecting a becoming style at a fair price from fashions that have been chosen after only the most careful discrimination.

THE PROBLEM OF APPROPRIATE VACATION CLOTHES MAY BE SOLVED EASILY HERE

Women who have hitherto looked to the assembling of their vacation wardrobe as a drawn-out task—even though pleasant—are astonished at the ease with which they may dispose of the entire matter here. All of their requirements have been provided for with distinctive, fascinating apparel

Gingham Frocks are Distinctive and Smart in Their Simplicity.

These modes are unusually winsome and quaint with their semi-fitted little bodices and daring puffs of gingham banded organdie over each hip. Waist lines are defined by black narrow picot-edged grosgrain ribbon which ties in a simple knot in the back. Truly there is much diversity in style here for tunic-ed Gingham Frocks and r odes quite different also await inspection.

Cotton Blouses in a

Wonderful Variety of Styles and Fabrics.

Cotton blouses have blossomed out—we can only call it that—until there is no occasion for which they do not offer an appropriate model, and very few styles in which they are not represented. Choice is offered you of dotted swiss, organdie, English dimity, crepe, voile or net, in white, twine and other pleasing tones.

Radiant Silk Skirts to Wear with the Sweaters, Jackets and Blouses of Summer.

When you stop to consider how very stylish these skirts are and how many times during the warm months you will want to wear one of them, doing without one really amounts to a hardship. However, no woman need deny herself the pleasure of owning at least one handsome skirt for these offerings are marked at prices within the reach of all purses.

New Modes Come to Add

Joy to the Choosing of Summery Frocks.

In a suitable fashion they hint at Paris origination with their bouffant, billowy skirts and tight little bodices. One can imagine pet little mannequins displaying the charms of these organdie, dotted Swiss and voile frocks as they stroll before an interested group of admiring femininity. This is your chance to choose a Frock with an "imported" air without paying for the privilege. The prices asked are more than reasonable.

BENTLEYVILLE LOSS
WAS OVER $100,000

The fire loss in Bentleyville, caused by the destructive conflagration of Friday, will amount to about 100,000. The most serious feature to the town is the destruction of the big school building, which will entail a loss of at least $50,000. It was a two-story structure, containing 12 rooms, together with contents including about 20,000 text books, all of which were lost in the fire. The district will have to make some arrangements for the children between now and the first of September, but just what steps will be taken have not yet been determined.

Other losses from the fire were also heavy, and it is considered that it was the most destructive fire that has ever visited that community. The town has been particularly unfortunate in the past few years in the way of fires, all of which have been of such a character that outside assistance had to be called. One of the results of the fire is likely to be a fire department, as well as the installation of a water system.
